MARKETS

- Worldwide total stainless steel output in 2013 reached an all time high figure of 38.13Mt. This exceeds last year's peak by 7.8%. The indication is that global production will grow by a further 3.6% this year to reach a new record of 39.5Mt
- China's output climbed more quickly than had been predicted to almost 19Mt last year.
- Japanese stainless steel making showed modest annual growth of 1.2% in 2013 and continues to increase into Q1 2014.
- While there are signs of economic recovery in the EU, producers in this region have lost market share globally. Last year European output fell by 4%.

2014 OUTLOOK

- The global economic outlook is showing signs of recovery with western industrial nations issuing positive economic indicators.
- Demand for commodities is also showing recovery with increase in demand for speciality alloys in United States.
- The ferroalloy market is expected to continue the positive trend of 2013 during which consumption reached record levels. To date, however, pricing has not responded to the increased demand.
- The Group continues to be prepared for significant price fluctuations and will continue to adapt its production levels accordingly.
- At Mogale Alloys, part of the Ferro Alloys division, the Company expects to start production of medium carbon ferrochrome during the third quarter of 2014, which is expected to have a positive impact on our profit margins.
- In the Speciality Alloys division we are expecting to see an increase in our raw materials cost due to current market conditions. As a result the Group expects its financial performance for the full year 2014 to marginally improve compared to 2013.
